Fans of certain TV series will tell you how distracted and annoyed they become when little “teaser” messages suddenly appear in the lower right-hand corner of the screen. They distract from the main action on screen. One of modern life’s small vexations.

Two thousand years ago, when that “scholar of the law” Pharisee, whom we might consider a “PhD” on the subject, approached Jesus with his question, he was coming from a background of teachers who had concocted 613 laws that covered almost any aspect of Jewish life. The main tenet of Moses’ law had gotten lost. This unnamed man wanted Jesus’ take on the matter. We see here that he received an answer from Our Lord in short order.

That Pharisee’s motives here were mixed at best. He knew that Jesus had “silenced” the Sadducees, his perpetual adversaries. Anything to build up the Pharisee camp by tearing down their opponents! But he didn’t realize that in Jesus he was up against a person who saw beneath the surface of anyone’s motives or conduct. I believe that there was a bit of a scold in the blunt reply Jesus made. No friendly introduction or follow-up praise.

Of course, the whole scene has implications for us and our thinking about religion and the things of God. Do we know what the main two-sided command of God is? I believe we almost automatically observe that first part about loving God with all our heart, soul and mind. This even though we sometimes choose other things as our “gods”? Things like power, wealth and fame? But at least most of us try to have the right priorities.

But it’s that second commandment, the one Our Lord says is “like” the first, that of loving our neighbor as ourselves, which gets most of us in the jungle of guilt. No matter how hard we try, the daily presence of shall I say “pesky or annoying” people often make us fall into rash judgment. That’s when we must remember what Jesus said about every other law depends on the first two.

One day a certain old rich man of a miserable disposition visited a rabbi, who took the rich man by the hand and led him to a window. “Look out there,” he said. The rich man looked into the street. “What do you see?” asked the rabbi. “I see men, women, and children.” answered the rich man. Again, the rabbi took him by the hand and this time led him to a mirror. “Now what do you see?” “Now I see myself,” the rich man replied.

Then the rabbi said, “Behold, in the window there is glass, and in the mirror, there is glass. But the glass of the mirror is covered with a little silver, and no sooner is the silver added than you cease to see others, but you see only yourself.”

God love you and give you His peace.

The NYC and Westchester Basket Brigades have been feeding families in need in the NYC tri-state area since 1996. Last year we were able to feed 3400 people. This year the need is even greater and we need your help.

Please visit <https://www.nycbasketbrigade.com/> for more information, or take a flyer from the back of the church to see how you can donate or volunteer. Please share on social media with family and friends to spread the word. Thank you in advance for your kind generosity.

Saint Martin de Porres November 3

Martin was born in 1579 in Lima, Peru, the illegitimate son of a Spanish nobleman and a freed Panamanian black slave. His father refused to acknowledge him and his sister as his own, so their mother was forced to raise them in poverty. They would endure prejudice from their neighbors for their dark skin and mixed race for their whole lives. However, despite these hardships, Martin never let it color his attitude. He was a consummate example of God's love and grace, treating all equally, regardless of status or race.

As a youth he was apprenticed to a barber/surgeon. When he was 15, he begged permission to enter the Dominican Convent of the Rosary as a lay helper, seeing himself as unworthy to be a religious brother. He was received as a servant boy. He became known as the "saint of the broom" for his diligence with his manual labors.

After eight years he was granted the privilege to take his vows as a member of the Third Order of Saint Dominic. He was charged with working with the sick and begging for alms. He was known to levitate and bi-locate, appearing to sick patients in isolation behind locked doors. He established an orphanage for abandoned children and slaves. His kindness even extended to the mice and stray animals.

After a long life of service, Martin passed away at age 60. His body was exhumed 25 years later and was still intact. He was canonized in 1962 and was named the patron saint of people of mixed race, barbers, and public health workers.
