Reflection

Some pieces of news result in big changes—an acceptance letter for school, a job, or a home. But have you ever received news that changed the course of your life? The announcement of a pregnancy or the death of a loved one carries a different weight. Life and death: the two greatest mysteries of human life. We all share them. We don't choose entrance into this world, and we cannot escape death.

Thus, we spend much of our lives trying to find purpose in our birth and avoiding death. We speak about the end in hushed tones and euphemisms, if we even speak about it at all. We engage in endless cycles of trying to find meaning and seeking to understand our existence.

Can you imagine if there was news that helped us understand it all and taught us how to truly live?

This is the message of Jesus Christ, the Gospel. Those who encounter his life can never be the same.

How can we preserve this message to make sure it stays alive in our hearts? Jesus is the one who teaches us how to live. He is Life itself who takes on flesh and walks among us, showing us what holiness looks like, and through his Death and Resurrection offers us the forgiveness of sins. Jesus came so that we might partake in the divine life of God. Not only does Jesus forgive our sins, but Jesus offers us everything we need to "sin no more" (John 8:11).

It can be a struggle to choose what is good, just, and right, and we may at times feel that we are constantly pulled toward sin. While sin always remains a choice, not a given, we find that we are often inclined to sin. The problem with sin is that it can not only break our relationship with others but also rupture our relationship with God. Even the most private sin misuses the freedom God gave us and wounds our relationship with him. There are consequences for our sin, but God's mercy is bigger.

This is life-changing news—but do we really live it? Do we live like people transformed by the power of Jesus Christ, or are we chasing meaning and purpose in our lives, trying to avoid death like everyone else?

Today is your wake-up call. Let the power of the Gospel take hold of your heart again. Let it convict you in your sin and call you to repentance. The Gospel message isn't life-enhancing; it is life-changing. It is the message that speaks to the heart about life and death, and it has the power to transform who you are forever.

Prayer

Lord Jesus Christ, you are the everlasting Good News. By your Life, Death, and Resurrection, you have accomplished the work of salvation. Pour grace into my heart and mind to receive this message in a new way today. By your grace, solidify this message in my heart so that I never forget my purpose and my destiny. I ask this in your Name, amen.

Challenge

The four Gospels contain the Good News of Jesus. Choose one of the four today and read the final chapters that recount his full Paschal Mystery—his Passion, Death, Resurrection, and Ascension. Depending on the Gospel you choose, this may take 15–30 minutes. You can find those narratives here:

Matthew 26–28
Luke 22–24

Mark 14–16
John 18–20

NATIONAL
Eucharistic Congress

The 10th National Eucharistic Congress is taking place in Indianapolis this week! It is the first Congress in the United States in 83 years. As Pope Francis said, "The National Eucharistic Congress marks a significant moment in the life of the Church in the United States."

Let us join together in prayer with our brothers and sisters across the nation. God hears our prayers for the renewal of our Church. He will answer them through a life-changing transformation of our own hearts.

If you cannot be there in person, you can still take part. Some of the talks will be live streamed so you can watch from home. Check the official website at <https://www.eucharisticcongress.org/> for details.

Our Lady of Mount Carmel's Brown Scapular

Mount Carmel in Israel has always been a holy site. In the 10th century before Christ, Elijah successfully challenged the priests of Baal and won the people to the true God on the mountain. Hermits looking to continue the prophet's way of life moved to the site. In the 12th century the Carmelite Order was formed and a monastery and chapel dedicated to Mary was built.

However, by the 13th century, the Crusaders were pushed from the area and it became unsafe for the friars. Saint Simon Stock, the Father General of the order, prayed to Our Lady for protection. On July 16, 1251, the Blessed Virgin appeared to the Prior and gave him the Brown Scapular, saying, "Receive, my beloved son, this Scapular of thy Order; it is the special sign of my favor, which I have obtained for thee and for thy children of Mount Carmel. He who dies clothed with this habit shall be preserved from eternal fire. It is the badge of salvation, a shield in time of danger, and a pledge of special peace and protection."

Originally, the scapular was two large pieces of cloth attached at the shoulders by narrow strips. It covered the front and back of the monk's habit and preserved it from dirt and wear. Lay people wanting to associate themselves with a particular religious order or devotion would don a miniature version. The Brown Scapular of Our Lady of Mount Carmel is the most popular one to this day.

Because the scapular is a sign of faith and devotion, it should be accompanied by the effort to live a life of faith and devotion, in cooperation with the grace of God. To receive the benefits of the Scapular, the wearer should have the scapular blessed and be enrolled in the Confraternity of the Brown Scapular. Members of the Confraternity should devoutly wear the Brown Scapular as a visible sign of devotion to Our Lady, with a commitment to regular prayer, frequent reception of Holy Communion, and daily recitation of one of the Hours of the Divine Office (such as Morning Prayer, Evening Prayer, or Night Prayer), or the Psalms, or the rosary, or other equivalent devotional prayers.

For more information, read A Catechesis on the Brown Scapular prepared by the Carmelites in celebration of the 750th anniversary of the Brown Scapular. You can also visit <https://www.sistersofcarmel.com/brown-scapular-information.php> for information on the Confraternity of the Brown Scapular and the official prayers.

Sacred Heart School still has seats available for September. The school serves Pre-K 3 year olds to 8th graders. If you'd like a tour and to speak to someone about the school, please email the principal, Dr. Fruner, at jfruner@shshartsdale.org. July and August hours are from 8:00am-12pm, Monday through Thursday. The school is closed on Fridays in July and August.
