Mother Teresa's Reflection on

Peace

The fruit of silence is prayer; the fruit of prayer is faith; the fruit of faith is love; the fruit of love is service; the fruit of service is peace.

Let us not use bombs and guns to overcome the world. Let us use love and compassion. Peace begins with a smile. Smile five times a day at someone you don't really want to smile at; do it for peace. Let us radiate the peace of God and so light His light and extinguish in the world and in the hearts of all men all hatred and love for power.

Today, if we have no peace, it is because we have forgotten that we belong to each other—that man, that woman, that child is my brother or my sister. If everyone could see the image of God in his neighbor, do you think we would still need tanks and generals?

Peace and war begin at home. If we truly want peace in the world, let us begin by loving one another in our own families. If we want to spread joy, we need for every family to have joy.

Today, nations put too much effort and money into defending their borders. They know very little about the poverty and the suffering that exist in the countries where those bordering on destitution live. If they would only defend these defenseless people with food, shelter, and clothing, I think the world would be a happier place.

The poor must know that we love them, that they are wanted. They themselves have nothing to give but love. We are concerned with how to get this message of love and compassion across. We are trying to bring peace to the world through our work. But the work is the gift of God.

Prayer for Unity, to Overcome Division

Christ Jesus, who gave yourself for the good of all, we come before you as brothers and sisters but we are divided and at times, even hostile--tearing one another down.

We approach the altar unworthily and ask for your forgiveness.

Move us, instead, towards encounter, listening, dialogue, reconciliation, and a commitment to build your kingdom for the good of all.

Heal us, restore us, unite your divided family, Lord. Through the power of the Eucharist, overcome our divisions.

Give us sincere hearts that make us open, not closed, and willing to encounter, ready to listen.

In your broken body, given for all, may we find unity and peace in you.

Amen.

Reflection

Sometimes our lives can feel like a rollercoaster, filled with high and low moments. As much as we strive to enjoy the positive moments, we know that they come and go, and even if we do our best to avoid the low moments, we know they are inevitable.

We experience traumatic and dark moments even more acutely. These moments aren't simply "low" moments but can leave us with lasting wounds and scars. It doesn't matter what stage of life you are in, your age, or where you live—we all have wounds, and all of us suffer.

But, Jesus offers us healing.

He spent a significant amount of time healing those who were broken and wounded. Jesus healed others to point out his redemptive mission. His healing was not just for back then but for all time. Jesus still heals us. Are we humble enough to bring our wounds to him?

We all need healing, and when we go to Jesus, we can be assured of his desire and power to heal us. As we begin the process first, we must ask for healing in prayer. After that, we have to identify what kind of healing we need: counseling, rehabilitation, or therapy may be necessary steps on our journey of healing. (There are many Catholic agencies and professionals who can walk this journey with you.) Healing sometimes requires reconciliation with people we have hurt or who have hurt us*. The sacraments provide us with yet another way to seek Christ's healing, for through them he "touches" us just, like he touched the eyes of the blind man.

As Pope Francis reminds us, "Indeed, we may find it hard to remain at peace with the Lord when our relationship with others and with ourselves is damaged. It is crucial, then, even in the midst of illness, that the whole Church measure herself against the Gospel example of the Good Samaritan, in order that she may become a true 'field hospital', for her mission is manifested in acts of care, particularly in the historical circumstances of our time. We are all fragile and vulnerable, and need that compassion which knows how to pause, approach, heal, and raise up." The truth is, we need each other even in our weakest, most vulnerable places—even places of pain. Jesus doesn't want us to be wounded and is with us to confront the broken parts of our lives. However, he will not act without our consent. The choice to be open to healing is ours.

If you need to find healing from past hurts, reach out to your local parish or diocesan office and ask for a list of Catholic mental health professionals whom you can connect with.*

Prayer

Jesus, you healed many people and still desire to heal us and make us whole. I offer you my wounds and the places where I am broken. Help me never succumb to a bitter sense of injustice or loneliness. In your mercy, hear my prayer and send the Holy Spirit to provide me with courage so I may seek help from others. Lord Jesus, heal me. Amen.

Challenge

Spend time today to identify an area that is wounded or broken and the next steps you need to take to find healing. Then take 15–30 minutes in prayer, before the Blessed Sacrament if possible, asking Jesus for healing and the courage to take those next steps.

Please donate to our

Food Pantry

As Mother Teresa called us to, let us defend the defenseless through our acts of love and service. If you are able, please consider donating a few non-perishable goods to our food pantry. Donations can be placed in the baskets in the vestibule. Every little bit helps to give the message to the needy that they too are children of God and they are loved. Thank you for your generosity!
